

The "DO NOT CALL" list is working well in NJ. The amount of annoying calls we now receive at inconvenient times have been cut to a minimum since we joined the do not call list. Prior to that, we used to get as many as 12 to 15 calls PER DAY. It is definitely an invasion into the privacy and comfort of our homes to be deluged with solicitation calls. DO NOT OVERTURN this ruling. If there are some people who enjoy receiving soliciation calls, they can certainly join companies' lists to be solicited. Do not impose this on those of us who do not wish to be sold things, esp. over the phone. With all the fraudulent transactions out there these days, I would think this is a way to minimize those who would like to take advantage of unwary consumers. Think about it. Who should the laws protect--preditors or those who are preyed upon? Legitimate companies should want to solicit only those who wish to be solicited.
